

Community Development Financial Institutions

Community Development Financial Institutions (CDFIs) are specialized financial institutions that promote community and economic development. CDFIs include community development banks, credit unions, loan funds, venture capital funds and microenterprise loan funds. CDFIs provide a range of products and services, including housing and community facilities financing, small business loans, and other community services that help revitalize economically distressed communities. There are approximately 80 certified CDFIs that provide targeted lending and investment in the Second Federal Reserve District.
